Complexity paints a picture of the world as interconnected, with new patterns and features emerging, where the detailed pathways and local particularities help to shape the future. These ideas form the basis of our consultancy work in strategy, coaching, organisation development and community and international development.

Embracing Complexity

Embracing Complexity takes a critical stance in relation to dominant ways of thinking about the social world. It presents complexity thinking as a way of understanding how the world works, and challenges the dominant expectation that leaders can control the evolution of the social and the organisational world.
